

SHOWROOM

an 'architecture' experience

PHOTOGRAPHY BY AARON KING

RACE Feller's new construction sector showroom at King Street Brisbane is a truly remarkable achievement in the past few years. It's a place where you can see the latest in construction technology and equipment, and you can see it in action. It's a place where you can see the latest in construction technology and equipment, and you can see it in action. It's a place where you can see the latest in construction technology and equipment, and you can see it in action.

Considering the tight margins of the construction industry, it's a remarkable achievement that the showroom is a place where you can see the latest in construction technology and equipment, and you can see it in action. It's a place where you can see the latest in construction technology and equipment, and you can see it in action. It's a place where you can see the latest in construction technology and equipment, and you can see it in action.

